Staplehurst, NE Recognized as a Smart Rural CommunitySM

Northeast Nebraska Telephone Company (NNTC) recognized the Village of Staplehurst, NE as a Smart Rural CommunitySM (SRC) on Tuesday, April 11th at Good 'Ol Days Bar & Grill at an open house sponsored by NNTC.

The designation comes from the Rural Broadband Association (NTCA) in conjunction with NNTC. This recognition is presented to those Broadband enabled communities who see an importance of Broadband Internet as a way to connect and grow through the capabilities of expanded online education, remote work, telehealth, ag technology, economic development, government services, safety and security. Staplehurst, NE is a Gig-Certified capable community enabling technology for all those who live and work there.

About 30 residents stopped by during the two-hour "Happy Hour" open house. GM Pat McElroy talked about the importance of being part of the cooperative.

"In just two years since Staplehurst became a part of the co-op, nearly $57,000 has been paid back right here in Staplehurst, which means that money is staying right here in your town," said McElroy.

McElroy recognized the village and presented a The Smart Rural CommunitySM designation award to Staplehurst Chairman Bobbi McVey-Blath.

At a time in Nebraska and the United States when government is investing millions to help close the "Digital Divide", Staplehurst, NE is already enjoying the same great fiber enabled speeds as those in urban areas like Lincoln and Omaha.
