Hubbard, NE Recognized as a Smart Rural CommunitySM

Northeast Nebraska Telephone Company (NNTC) recognized the Village of Hubbard, NE as a Smart Rural CommunitySM (SRC) on Tuesday, July 11th at the Hubbard Community Hall during an NNTC open house.

The designation comes from the Rural Broadband Association (NTCA) in conjunction with NNTC. This recognition is presented to those Broadband enabled communities who see an importance of Broadband Internet as a way to connect and grow through the capabilities of expanded online education, remote work, telehealth, ag technology, economic development, government services, safety and security. Hubbard, NE is a Gig-Certified capable community enabling technology for all those who live and work there.

Residents stopped by during the two-hour coffee open house. GM Pat McElroy talked about the importance of being part of the cooperative.

“In the past 20 years, more than $6 million has come back to our customers right here in Hubbard and Jackson, and that’s money that’s staying right here in your community, which is pretty incredible if you think about that for a town this size,” said McElroy.

McElroy recognized the village and presented a The Smart Rural CommunitySM designation award to Hubbard Village Board Members Ron Hunn and Ron Collins.

At a time in Nebraska and the United States when government is investing millions to help close the “Digital Divide”, Hubbard, NE is already enjoying the same great fiber enabled speeds as those in urban areas like Lincoln and Omaha.

NNTC will be expanding their fiber network into two rural areas of Dakota County. The first area is just west of South Sioux City, north of Highway 20 and in the bluffs between Homer and Hubbard.
